Summer Institute for Public Health Practice

Public Health Today: New Strategies. New Tools.

Another Reason To Celebrate: Register by July 4th and save $300

We're delighted to announce that early registration for the 18th annual Summer Institute for Public Health Practice is open until July 4th.

Learning how to improve the health of the public has become a summer tradition at the University of Washington. This August, the 18th annual Summer Institute for Public Health Practice will take place on the UW Seattle campus. The Summer Institute will run from August 10-14 and is sponsored by the Northwest Center for Public Health Practice in the University of Washington's School of Public Health.

Participants from across the country will discuss what is current in public health practice and hear from leading experts on cross-cutting issues. Practical, case-based training is a Summer Institute trademark, and all courses are designed to be relevant to both emerging and everyday challenges. Summer Institute participants will also be able to network with colleagues from across the nation to learn what other communities are doing to improve public health.

Register by July 4th and pay only $1200. Contact Trudy San Jose White via email sanjose@u.washington.edu or phone 206.685.2931 or visit our website at www.nwcphp.org/si.

Please Help the Summer Institute Go Green

Although we certainly want to invite everyone to the 18th annual Summer Institute for Public Health Practice, we also want to be considerate of the environment. It's for this reason that the Summer Institute isn't mailing posters and informational packets across the country.

Instead, we have created materials that can be adapted for your needs. You can print as many or as few as you need to reach the audiences where you live and work.

Register now and save $300. We'll see you on August 10th!
